

Maybe our life has already been played out. But getting dropped into this world we became largely unconscious of it. The play has been written, and we are on stage having largely forgot our part. We see glimpses (deja vu). For those of us who dialogue with God - He can tell us the script - the next line - the next scene. Outside of time it's already been played out. We need to be less conscious of this world to be more aware of our part in it...

The tragedy of conformity (to this world) is that we end up playing an entirely different role than the one written in heaven.
